ROCHESTER N Y May 17 —James Vick the famous seedsman, who was the playmate of Charles Dickens and set type beside Horace Greeley died yesterday of pneumonia

Theodore [illegible] Charles Claudon journalist and novelist died at Paris yesterday

Wholesale Dealers in Trouble.

CHICAGO May 17 —Representatives of [illegible] trunk lines and a delegation of Omaha wholesale merchants will hold a conference in this city Friday Merchants complain of the rigidity of the freight tariff, and they say that previous to January 1 jobbers could get special rates, but since then retailers could get precisely the same rates as themselves They claim that unless they can get concessions wholesale business at Omaha and other points must perish

Lynching in Baton Rouge.

BATON ROUGE, May 1[illegible] —A mob of whites and blacks attacked the jail in St. Martin's parish early yesterday morning and took Jose Jenkins murderer of his brother in law, Castelo, carried him to the spot where the murder was committed, and hanged him to the limb of a tree The same mob then hunted up James Ascor colored, out on bail, charged with murdering a white man, and in spite of his protests of innocence, hanged him on the same tree Gov McEnery offers a reward of $2000 for the lynchers

Accident on the Northern Pacific.

SPIRITWOOD, D T, May 16 —As a work train on the Northern Pacific was bringing workmen to dinner an axle of the caboose broke, throwing the train from the track W S Turner brakeman, of Steven's Point a man named Morris Racine and another named Larlunson were instantly killed A body lies under the engine, and it is feared others are missing under the wreck in a ditch filled with water The bodies of Turner and Racine were taken to Jamestown with a number of seriously wounded whose names were not secured

Crop Reports from Dakota

ST PAUL, May 1[illegible] —A large number of points in northern Dakota send reports fully confirming estimates of increased wheat acreage in that section and both sides of Red river valley The increase ranges from 10 to 50 per cent, and averages 30 between the Mississippi river and Red river In north Dakota the increase ranges from 25 to 50 per cent In the newly opened territory along the Northern Pacific between Red river and Devil's lake the increase can hardly be estimated in percentage The weather is favorable and work is progressing finely Equally favorable reports come from southern Minnesota Much more corn will be planted than heretofore

Wood River Ore Shipment.

K[illegible] I T, May 12.—The first ore shipped from Woodriver was received by J Reinhart manager of the Idaho Forwarding Co yesterday It consists of 400 sacks, weighing some 45,000 pounds and was shipped by the Minnie Moore mine at Bellevue From this place it will be shipped to San Francisco, as an experimental lot Should this prove profitable it will have the effect of directing a great portion of the ore shipments from the east to San Francisco It is expected that the output of the ore from Wood river this year will be at the lowest calculation 2100 tons The arrivals here for Wood river country will average 30 per day Stages are crowded, and a busy season is anticipated

After the Assassins.

NEW YORK, May 17 —The steamer Scythia passed Fire Island at 10:30 last night and cast anchor outside the bar She will probably come up to quarantine at 5 or 6 o'clock this morning The Dexter, with Marshal Knox on board went to Sandy Hook but it was thought that he would not attempt to board the Scythia until morning The marshal reported that he would content himself with watching the Scythia The Chester A Arthur with Pinkerton's detectives on board was lying at quarantine at 1 o'clock this morning but the authorities believe the efforts of the New York police merely precautionary and there is no real ground of suspicion that the Irish assassins are on board.

The marshal made a thorough search of the steamer Sierra but found no concealed assassins They will also search the steamer Indiana expected to-day

NEW YORK, May 17 —The steamship State of Indiana has been signalled U S marshals and detectives on the look out for Dublin assassins will not be able to board the vessel before morning

A Change in Mining Affairs.

NEW YORK May 17 The Times says Mining exchanges seem to be awakening to the fact that at least a suspicion of value must attach to securities in which they deal before the public will [illegible] to place any confidence in them The American mining exchange has taken the initiative in a movement which it is predicted will develop soon into healthy proportions Upon the exchange board a long line of stocks has been listed and dealt in of which few persons have known anything of a satisfactory nature In fact it has been long notorious that shares which by a rule sale or a request [illegible] have ceased to have any shadow of existence were not [illegible] the exchange lists but [illegible] regular [illegible] [illegible] prominent members [illegible] for a long time The board of managers of the exchange [illegible] [illegible]

Yesterday [illegible] [illegible] deserving [illegible] members of the New York [illegible] [illegible] from this multitude of swindles [illegible] all of our business will [illegible] public won't trust us That is a fact [illegible] as well face it at once If we [illegible] encounter others that are even more unpleasant before a long time elapses.

presented himself at the appointed hour at the [illegible] appointed and I was asked whether he was prepared to comply literally with the [illegible] information He said that he had no information and he had no choice but to answer in the negative The latter continues I was then peremptorily dismissed being asked no other question and being allowed to make no statement and no explanation I now beg to notify the committee through you that I am prepared and have at all times since this subpoena was served upon me been prepared to supply in effect although I cannot literally all evidence called for I further state this evidence includes an important letter from the president a newly discovered correspondence with official and unofficial representatives of Peru and with the department of state through my counsel This documentary evidence, with much more which I need not here specify enables me absolutely to dispose of every imputation upon my veracity and consequent value of my testimony which by assertion or suggestion has been put into record since I was last heard and I respectfully submit that in the premises my personal right as an assailed witness is entitled to consideration In answering Blaine and in correcting Senator Blair I shall confine myself within the same limits as in addressing a court of [illegible]

The New Tariff Commission.

The president is overrun with applications from nearly all states for appointments on the tariff commission It is said that nearly two hundred names have been presented at the white house with high endorsements for places on the commission Most of the men suggested are representatives of special interests and the president it is reported on high authority, has decided not to compose the commission of gentlemen directly connected with the industries of the country It may be that in making up the commission the president will choose as members men interested in special branches of trade but they will not be selected on account of familiarity with single departments of industry but because of their capacity to deal with the tariff as a whole The wool growers are taking much interest in the commission and are making some desperate efforts to secure the appointment of Mr Hayes of Boston to represent the Wool growers' Association Massachusetts representatives are generally opposed to the appointment of Mr Edward Atkinson for the reason as one member said to-day that Atkinson is a self opinionated and impracticable man with whom mutual concession must be [illegible] standing Members of the Illinois delegation hold a meeting to day to try and agree on some man to recommend to the president for appointment on the commission A majority favored the appointment of Mr Robert Porter late of the census bureau but no agreement was reached Ex Vice President Wheeler has been suggested as chairman of the commission

Chili's Extravagant Terms.

WASHINGTON May 16 —Senor Elmore Peruvian minister, has two cable dispatches from Peru through the minister in Paris The first conveys the important news that on the 25th of April Special Envoy Trescott was received by President Montero at the interior Peruvian city of Huaraz and presented his credentials as minister of the United States in public audience with the usual official ceremonies The second cable dispatch informs Elmore that Trescott in a subsequent special conference presented the Chilian project of truce the principal [illegible] of which were that Chili should keep the province of Tarapaca as a prize of conquest and that Peru should be obliged to sell the Chilians the Peruvian province of Arica The other telegram announces that Peru rejected the proposed truce under these conditions Elmore in commenting on the news says the province of Tarapaca is worth $[illegible] and that under the proposed arrangement Chili would eventually buy the province of Arica with the Peruvian money derived from the province of Tarapaca

Cameron Refuses his own Medicine

The Chicago Times' Washington special says that before calling on the president to-day, Senator Mitchell called on Don Cameron and read him the beautiful civil service chapter in the Harrisburg convention platform in which it was stated with due solemnity that faithful federal officials should not be removed without a cause and that federal patronage should not be used to control political action After Mr Mitchell had read these interesting bits of political literature he read also to the senator two editorials from the Philadelphia Press calling for the withdrawal of the two nominations for collectors upon the ground that party honor demanded it in view of the resolutions of the Harrisburg convention Don Cameron could not relish this dose of his own medicine and became sulky and absolutely refused to go with the Pennsylvania senator to the president and told him he (Mitchell) understood well enough that the civil service chapter was nothing but a string of words which meant nothing

Good Advice from an Agent.

Agent Llewellyn telegraphs the commissioner of Indian affairs In view of the failure of congress to make appropriations for subsisting the Mescalero Apaches, and in view of the fact that the beef and flour on hand will only last until July 1st, and that these Indians have no means of subsisting themselves it seems to me it will be good policy to transfer them to the war department, who should take charge of them before starvation compels them to commit depredations which naturally tend to great loss of life and destruction of property As soon as supplies are cut off the military will have to act therefore I deem it advisable for the troops to take charge of the Mescalero Apaches at once Nothing short of force can compel them to remain on the reservation and starve The action of congress on this matter simply means [illegible] termination

Adversely Reported

The special committee of the naval committee has recommended adverse action in the case of Chief Engineer Melville for reasons fully stated in communications from Secretary Chandler in response to inquiry on the part of the committee The secretary says while he believed Chief Engineer Melville had done all in his power for the [illegible] of his shipmates but [illegible] from all sources regarding the search for Commander DeLong and his companions is so limited he cannot recommend the passage of the resolution at this time The secretary suggests that no action be taken until next session of congress, by which time intelligent action can be had Congressional Action on Porter.

The Washington correspondent of the New York Mail and Express says Senator Sewell gives notice to the military committee that at its next meeting he will call up the bill to restore Fitz John Porter to his rank as general in the army and retire him paying him for the time between his dismissal and official close of the war Senator Logan will no longer antagonize it Before he has been its most bitter opponent The committee holds a special meeting this evening to consider the compulsory retirement amendment to the army appropriation bill

The Venezuelan Claims.

A long pending controversy over the Venezuelan claims is about to be disposed of Assistant Secretary of State Bancroft Davis is preparing a report which will be submitted to congress in a few days In this he takes the ground that after thorough and careful investigation, the department is clearly convinced that, in presentation of these claims, they were in many instances fraudulent, and that Venezuela was right in her appeal to vitiate the awards This will probably end all attempts to force these claims by either congress or the state department

Shipherd's Investigation.

Shipherd appeared before the foreign relations committee this morning with a heavy load of documents The chairman said that the house had demanded copies of all correspondence papers and other evidence of Shipherd's negotiations showing what he did or attempted to do in regard to the Peruvian company Shipherd said he would furnish such papers and evidence He was then discharged and no time fixed for his recall

Immigration Statistics.

The chief of the bureau of statistics reports that the total number of immigrants arrived from principal foreign countries for the ten months ending April 30 was 44[illegible] against 445,[illegible] the same period in 1881 Germany leads in the matter of numbers being [illegible] an increase of over 40,000 as compared with the previous year The importation from China was for 1881 [illegible], and for 1880 [illegible]

IMPORTATION OF CHINESE.

A Forcible Statement of the Evils Resulting Therefrom.

Speech of Hon M C George of Oregon, in the House of Representatives March 22 1882

[illegible]

Mr Speaker [illegible]

[illegible] From this I start upon the broad assumption and I lay it down as a universal proposition that in this [illegible] success in the virtue and intelligence of each and every citizen, there is no more guarded principle than that the ignorant the savage the barbarous the brutal the servile the riffraff the dangerous [illegible] foreign nation are entitled of right to enter our body politic and become a part and parcel of our governing power

I am aware of no correct or well defined principle that makes America free for the inundations of the rag tag or the worst elements of any heathen country In the republic of America we each assist in governing the rest and it is a matter of the very greatest importance to us each that every other person in this broad land in whose keeping our laws or form of government intrusts our property our liberty and our lives shall be possessed of those essential qualities which alone can insure the success and blessings of wise, free and secure government You will admit with me, Mr Speaker, that it is a question of the day yet unsolved in the minds of many publicists and statesmen as to the capacity of people generally for self government Our American nation grand as has been its success [illegible] is yet an experiment of but a single century [illegible] trial and you well know that had it not been for the intelligence patriotism and virtue of the people of our country we long since would have been numbered among the nations that were but are not now

All agree that these essential individual and national requisites must continue to exist or self government or rather the government of each by all and all by each will yet prove a lamentable failure—sufficient intelligence to know how to do for the right and for the best and virtue to do it Our nation is like a great pyramid our people compose the base and if they are not of the right material the whole will crumble and fall

It therefore becomes pertinent for us to inquire as to the character and kind of people who are being [illegible] forth to take part and lot with us More especially is this true in our republic than in any other form of government and far more so than in despotic countries where arbitrary power over the masses is centered in one

In this land of liberty and freemen broad though it be [illegible] Asia I assert that it is just as much our right and duty to exercise care in [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] remarks the following facts gleaned from [illegible] official report [illegible] consul general in China Hon O N Denny who has given this subject much consideration [illegible]

Sketches of Lord Cavendish and Under Secretary Burke, the Latest Victims of Assassination

[illegible]

[illegible] Cavendish visited the United States in company with Earl Richard Grosvenor a brother of the duke of Westminster and with the Hon Evelyn Ashley [illegible] secretary and biographer of Lord Palmerston On his return he became private secretary to the then president of the council Earl Granville in [illegible] 1864 In that year he married on the 7th of June the [illegible] who survives him but is childless At the general election of July 1865 Lord Frederick entered parliament being returned without opposition as one of the two liberal members for the West Riding of Yorkshire When that constituency was divided three years later he and his colleague the late Sir Frank Crossley were returned without opposition for the northern division in November 1868 At the general elections of 1874 and 1880 the liberals elected both members Lord Frederick on each occasion heading the poll with a trifle more votes than his colleague Sir M Wilson Bart In July 1872 he became Mr Gladstone's private secretary and when the ministry was rearranged in August of the following year became a junior lord of the treasury Retiring with his chief in February 1874 he returned to office with him in May 1880 as financial secretary of the treasury with a salary of £2,000 a year an office which he held until on Mr Forster's retirement last week he was made chief secretary for Ireland He was described on his own authority as "a liberal in favor of the total abolition of church rates and complete religious liberty"

The duke of Devonshire besides the 100 000 acres he holds in eleven English shires owns 32 [illegible] acres in Cork 27,540 in Waterford and nine in Tipperary in which county it may be added a considerable estate is held by Lord Waterpark the head of a younger branch of the Cavendish family

MR. BURKE

Mr Thomas Henry Burke, under-secretary of state for Ireland was born on the 29th of May 1829 He was the second son of the late William Burke of Knocknagur, Galway cousin to Sir John Lionel Burke, Bart, of Glinsk, in that county His mother Fanny Xaveria Tucker was the half sister of Cardinal Wiseman and the daughter of General O'Donohu, the last Spanish viceroy of Mexico Through the drowning in 18[illegible] of his elder brother Richard and the death of his father in 1877 the gentleman who was murdered yesterday became heir presumptive to the baronetcy

PHOENIX PARK.

Phoenix park is the west of Dublin on the northerly side of the Liffey river from which it is only separated by Conyngham road The park is approached over King's bridge from the Victoria quay on the old Dublin side of the river or from Barrack street The park is seven miles round and contains the Mounts of Barracks, Zoological Gardens and the vice-regal lodge of the lord lieutenant and also the official residence of the chief secretary Thirteen hundred acres of the park have been entirely thrown open The park is still a royalty, but for a very long time has been publicly used The park contains a large number of fine old trees, walks and drives and has yearly been improved In it is the obelisk [illegible] known as the Wellington testimonial and called by the citizens Irish mile stone Before the massive granite pedestal on which this obelisk stands are [illegible] accounts of the victories of the great duke and around this was held several years ago the great amnesty meeting that was violently dispersed There is a monument also to Lord Chesterfield, on the top of which is a Phoenix and there is a statue to Lord Carlisle The park is the pride of Dublin and of all Irishmen who have visited it When first laid out it was entirely in the suburbs and within it lie the celebrated [illegible] in which so many duels have been fought

The City of Pullman and its Founder

Mr George M Pullman well known for his connection with palace cars and an [illegible] has just returned from Europe and tells a Chicago reporter that over fifty of the Pullman palace cars are now in use in England Scotland and Italy Some were at present in use in France, but several were now in process of construction for use upon French railways Those in use were giving general satisfaction

Mr Pullman said he was not prepared to say anything about the plans for the future development of Pullman—that the matter was not in shape for publication

The reporter hinted at the report which gave Mr Pullman credit for the proposed establishment of a new transatlantic line of steamships but Mr Pullman said that he could not at present say anything upon that matter and preferred to say nothing concerning the report that he was contemplating the building of a new hotel on the site of the old Hyde Park hotel at the foot of Fifty third street Hyde park

THE TOWN OF PULLMAN

During Mr Pullman's absence an immense amount of work has been done The great water tower, 225 feet high is rapidly approaching completion The water tank is at the very top, and has a capacity of 500 000 gallons of water After June 1 all the water used in Pullman will pass through this tank The water is drawn from Lake Michigan at the Hyde Park water works and sent by pipe to Pullman a distance of about six miles The sewage of Pullman will also be pumped into this tower and thence sent to the sewage farm, about two miles distant Foundations are now laid for 500 new buildings, to the completion of which nearly 15 000 000 brick to be manufactured on the spot, will be used Thirty million brick have been already laid in Pullman [illegible] 000 000 of which were made there from clay taken by steam dredges from the bed of Lake Calumet All the car shops are running to their utmost capacity and orders have been received sufficient for several months work A contract has been signed with the New York Chicago & St Louis railroad to furnish seventy first class passenger cars besides sleepers and other rolling stock

It is the intention of the company to make Pullman a model community A union of utility and beauty has been attained Several of the handsomest buildings in Pullman are now receiving the finishing touches The Arcade building, in which will be the theater public library stores and offices is nearly ready for occupancy The theater will seat about 1000 people The library when completed will contain about 40 000 books The Arcade contains twenty eight stores for which over 700 applications have been made

A beautiful little park is nearly completed to the east of the Arcade building and in the rear of the Hotel Florence The church made of serpentine stone from Pennsylvania will be soon ready for divine worship It is said this church is to be non sectarian The gas works are in full operation, and gas is turned on in all houses for lighting purposes and fuel

Wonderful as has been its development the City of Brick is increasing in size and beauty each day

"WOMEN NEVER THINK."

If the crabbed old bachelor who uttered this sentiment could but witness the intense thought deep study and thorough investigation of women in determining the best medicines to keep their families well and would note their sagacity and wisdom in selecting Hop Bitters as the best and demonstrating it by keeping their families in perpetual health, at a mere nominal expense, he would be forced to acknowledge that such sentiments are baseless and false —Picayune

King Oscar to Nilsson.

From the Pall Mall Gazette

Mme Nilsson Rouzeaud has received the following letter from the king of Sweden

CHRISTIANIA March 5 188[illegible]

Dear Mme Nilsson-Rouzeaud I am sure that you have not doubted for a single instant of the very sincere sympathy I have in the cruel trial which has fallen on you The news reached me very late owing to my journey to Christiania and when at length I heard of the death of your husband it was too late to telegraph, and I preferred waiting till I could properly write a letter in your great and natural affliction without being obtrusive Dear Mme Nilsson I was much distressed when I read the sad circumstances which led to your terrible misfortune God alone can give you strength of mind and body to bear up against such a trial but He will give it you I am certain and you have my sincerest wishes for your future You are yet young and in full possession of the great artistic qualities which have founded and justify your renown You will find consolation in work and your very sorrow by the help of God may contribute to the development of [illegible] You may live long very long I hope remain the great artist who honors the country which gave you birth It is not so much [illegible] as an amateur and above all as your friend that I do not hesitate to say this Yours truly with sincere interest on my part and believe me your ever affectionate OSCAR

THE PENNSYLVANIA REVOLT.

The most significant political movement of the year is the independent revolt in Pennsylvania. It is earnest and well organized, and has become so formidable as to threaten most seriously the ascendency of the Camerons in the politics of the state. That ascendency is founded on the most rigorous machine methods, and on the most thorough absolutism ever set up under the boss system. It has made the Camerons, father and son, with some half dozen of their lieutenants and sub-bosses, not only the rulers of the republican party but the party itself, in the great state of Pennsylvania. The abuses of this despotism, carried on through many years, have been slowly producing an accumulation of discontent that now takes the form of an open revolt. The Cameron machine in Pennsylvania is the most powerful and despotic of the branches of that boss system which grew up under Grant, supported the third-term conspiracy, encouraged the shameful attack on Garfield, and now finds favor, profit and spoils under Garfield's successor. By the methods of professional management it has ruled the republicans of Pennsylvania against the will of an overwhelming majority. The bosses of the ring maintain an absolute dictatorship; they advance only those who will be subservient to themselves, and shut out from a career all who do not look to them as the fountain of honor, authority and power. Every man of real eminence and worth is crushed remorselessly by this cabal of unscrupulous mediocrity. No one dares to aspire to any position without first becoming the servant of the bosses and proving a disposition to do their will without regard to public opinion or any judgment of his own.

The central idea of this system is to take away from the masses of the party the right and power to select the candidates they are to vote for, and to usurp for the little clique of bosses all the right and power of such selection. This makes the machine, and the spoils system is employed to maintain it. Against the Cameron dynasty and its works there has been constant protest in Pennsylvania, and the protest has now grown into a rebellion that challenges national attention. It drew away in the last election 50,000 votes from the ring ticket, and would have defeated it had the democrats known the real strength of the independent effort. In 1880 it prevented the election of Cameron's man to the senate, defeating Oliver for the position and forcing the ring to accept Mitchell, who now aggressively takes the lead of the movement to emancipate the party from its slavery to the Cameron gang. There is no longer any hope of accommodation. The conference, of which the telegraph gave notice two weeks ago, resulted in nothing. Fine promises were made by the bosses, but their programme was put through the convention as rigorously as ever. The protestors, who comprise pretty much all the elements of the party which give the party character and strength, have resolved to hold an independent convention and to nominate a full ticket. They have a complete organization in all parts of the state. In their call for a convention they say:

> The adoption, by the Harrisburg convention of May 10, of resolutions of plans and platitudes, while confessing the existence of the evils which we have strenuously opposed, and admitting the justice of our position in opposing them, will not satisfy the independent republicans of this commonwealth. We are not battling for the construction of platforms, but for the overthrow of bossism and the evils of the spoils system, which animated a despicable assassin to deprive our loved President Garfield of his life and our country of its friend and peacemaker.

This is unmistakable language. It shows that the indignant and righteous wrath of the people against bossism, which broke forth with terrible fury when President Garfield fell a victim to the accursed system, has not burned itself out. The independent convention will assemble at Philadelphia on the 24th of the present month. It will sound the knell of Cameronism and the boss system in Pennsylvania.

James Vick, the well known seedsman of Rochester, N. Y., died at his home in that city yesterday. While attaining no special celebrity in the annals of fame, his history was in many ways one of interest. A personal associate of Charles Dickens in England and afterwards, with Horace Greeley in America, and widely known among the agricultural classes of our people, he acquired a quiet fame and a name which will perhaps be held in greater reverence than many whose possessors attained a higher position in the world of action. As a journalist and in his later avocation, energy and the strictest integrity were his cardinal characteristics.

Finding the republican candidates worthy of support the republicans of the state are evincing a purpose to give them a solid backing. Of course there are minor differences here and there on county nominations, but these differences are found in one party about as much as in the other. On the state tickets the division will be in the main on party lines, and as every recent election has shown that Oregon has a republican majority there is just reason to expect a result next month similar to that recorded in June, 1880, and again in November of the same year.

The progress of railroad building, contrary to expectation, has not been checked during the present year, and the great mileage of 1881 is likely to be largely exceeded in 1882. Since the first of January new track to the extent of over 2200 miles has been laid throughout the country, an increase of nearly 1000 miles over the amount laid at the same time last year, and work is being prosecuted more vigorously than ever before.

The Chicago Herald, speaking of the lynching of a ravisher at Minneapolis recently, condemns "mob law" on general principles, but approves of the special instance, and attributes it to the delay and uncertainties of justice as administered by the courts. It adds: "On a trial all the legal inferences must not be in favor of the prisoner. The state must have some inferences in its favor."

Mr. George's speech which we print to-day is a forcible presentation of the evils of Chinese immigration. The eastern mind needs enlightening on this question, and Mr. George has done his full duty with other members from this coast in pressing the subject in a practical way upon the attention of those who know too little about it.

The Northern Pacific railroad in Dakota and Montana is taxed to its full capacity in rolling stock, to answer the demands of its passenger and freight traffic. Grading work for a long distance both ways from Helena is being parcelled out in one or two mile contracts, in order to hurry it forward as fast as possible.

Frank Fisher, a colored fiend, ravished a thirteen-year-old girl at Galion, O., and was promptly hanged. So great was the excitement that 4000 people lent the occasion moral support. It would seem that these beasts would at last learn that swift vengeance follows such a crime, the most atrocious and unnatural in the calendar.

Germany now occupies the first place in the list of foreign nations furnishing immigrants to the United States. Recently published statistics show that during the ten months ending April 30, 1882, she sent us 185,000 of the 544,-599 immigrants landing at the various ports of the United States.

One hundred and seventy-five thousand citizens of the state of New York have petitioned for the pardon of Sergeant Mason. And the back counties are still to hear from.

Ohio has 21,663 pensioners, whose annual pay is $2,638,000. To settle up arrears with them will require over $2,000,000 more.

AMERICAN JEWS IN RUSSIA.

Two weeks ago congress called upon the state department for copies of its correspondence with reference to the condition of the Israelites in Russia. Several volumes of letters were submitted, the most important and interesting being those of the past year. It appears from the correspondence between Minister Foster and Secretary Blaine that the action of the Russian authorities towards American citizens who are Jews is of two kinds:

First—Absolute prohibition of residence in St. Petersburg and other cities of the empire on the ground that the Russian law permits no native Jew to live there, and that the treaty between Russia and the United States gives to our citizens in Russian jurisdiction no other rights or privileges than those accorded to native Russians.

Second—Permission of residence and commerce conditioned on belonging to the First Guild of Russian merchants and taking out license.

In a letter to Minister Foster, under date of July 29, 1881, Mr. Blaine says that on a case arising this government would hold that the treaty of 1832 conferred specific rights on all American citizens in the matter of the disposition of their personal property, irrespective of any conditions save those which the treaty expressly creates; that their actual presence, when necessary to protect or assert their interests, is absolutely guaranteed whenever and for whatever time it may be needful, and that this international engagement supersedes any municipal rule or regulation which may interfere with the free action of such individuals. He enlarges on the point that the government of the United States concludes its treaties with foreign states for the equal protection of all classes of American citizens. It can make absolutely no discrimination between them, whatever be their origin or creed, so that they abide by the laws at home or abroad. It must give them due protection and expect like protection for them. Any unfriendly or discriminatory act to them on the part of the foreign power with which we are at peace would, he says, call for our earnest remonstrance, whether a treaty existed or not. Mr. Blaine adds: "It is, therefore, a source of unfeigned regret to us when a government to which we are allied by so many historical ties as to that of Russia shows a disposition in regard to dealings with us to take advantage of technicalities."

In reference to this communication, Hoffman, secretary of legation, wrote Secretary Blaine that the Russian minister of foreign affairs still maintained the view that under the treaty of 1832, the words "on condition of their submitting to the laws and ordinances then prevailing," subjected the American Jews to the treatment of Russian Jews. These views had already been given to other foreign powers. The Russian minister said that as regards the moral side of the question, he would personally be glad to see important modifications made in the laws regarding the condition of the Jews in Russia; but that they had brought much of the harshness of those laws upon themselves.

The last letter on this subject was written April 15th last, by Secretary Frelinghuysen to Charge d'Affairs Hoffman, and was as follows: "Prejudice of race and creed having in our day given way to the claims of our common humanity, the people of the United States have heard with great regret stories of the sufferings of the Jews in Russia. It may be that the accounts in the newspapers are exaggerated, and the same may be true of some private reports. Making, however, due allowance for misrepresentations, it can scarcely be doubted that much has been done which humane and just persons must condemn. The president, of course, feels that the government of the emperor should not be held morally responsible for acts which it considers wrong, but which it may be powerless to prevent. If that be true of this case, it would be worse than useless for me to direct you, as the representative of the United States, to give official expression to the feeling which this treatment of the Jews calls forth in this country. Should, however, the attitude of the Russian government be different, and should you be of opinion that a more vigorous effort might be put forth for the prevention of this great wrong, you will, if a favorable opportunity offers, state with all proper deference that the feeling of friendship which the United States entertains for Russia prompts this government to express a hope that the imperial government will find means to cause the persecution of these unfortunate fellow-beings to cease. This instruction devolves a delicate duty upon you and wide discretion is given you in its execution. However much this republic may disapprove of the affairs in other nationalities, it does not conceive that it is its right or province officiously and offensively to intermeddle. If, however, it should come to your knowledge that any citizens of the United States are made the victims of persecution, you will feel it your duty to omit no effort to protect them and report the case to this department."

There was a vigorous fight yesterday between the various democratic clubs of this city, representing the best working element of the party, and a handful of party backs, who have made it their business to regularly "set things up" for several years past. The "old crowd" were under the direction and lead of Ben Norden, and, assisted by a crowd of professional strikers of the Sam Wolf stripe, carried the day, of course. The only special contest was for sheriff, Capt. John Wolf, E. Corbett and T. M. Richardson being urged by their respective friends and represented in the primary tickets. Yesterday's work, it is thought, put Richardson out of the race, and leaves the chances about even between the other two candidates. Wolf, it is asserted, is put forward merely as a decoy to be voted for, and in the event of his election, the management of the office will be given over to Norden. A democrat—one of the more independent sort—said last night that if Wolf would promise not to make Norden his deputy, he would be nominated by Saturday's convention on the first ballot; but that if he would not do this, himself (the speaker) and others would fight him in the convention, and if not successful there, on election day at the polls.

When a cotton mill in Georgia earns a 30 per cent. dividend in one year, it is time the cheap talk about such mills in the south not paying, should cease. On a capital of $540,000 the Graniteville mills at Augusta paid a cash dividend of 10 per cent. for the past year. But in addition to his 10 per cent. dividend, over 20 per cent., or $125,000, was carried to the surplus fund. The Graniteville has paid 10 per cent. per annum steadily, and out of its surplus above this, has built and paid for a new mill, the Vaucluse, costing $375,000. This new mill alone earned $77,166 90 during the past year, or over 12 per cent. on the entire capital of both mills. In addition to all this, the company has accumulated a new surplus since building the Vaucluse mill, which now foots up $293,882 19, or nearly enough to build and pay for a third mill. Under proper conditions cotton manufacturing not only will pay in the south, but does pay; and under proper conditions will continue to pay in the north for many years to come.

President Arthur remarked recently that the unanimous voice of the Pacific Coast press against his veto of the first Chinese bill was a new lesson in politics to him. He had observed that in New York, for instance, a few newspapers would oppose and attack bitterly the men and things they might happen to dislike or disapprove, but there are always a few who take the other side of the question. His experience in regard to the veto, he said, was different, as the papers of the Pacific coast were unanimous in denouncing him. There are no exceptions.

The law enacted several years ago to regulate fishing in the Columbia river has not been [illegible]. Indiscriminate methods of catching salmon now employed at the Cascades and other places work hardship and injustice to honest and legitimate fishermen, and threaten soon to stop the Chinook or summer run altogether. The legislature at its coming session should pass a restrictive law with severe penalties and invite the co-operation of the legislature of Washington territory to preserve this very important fishery interest.

Representative George's speech in congress on the 4th April on "the Permanent Development of the Northwest" was very elaborate and exhaustive. It is the first comprehensive effort yet made to set before congress and the country the resources of the Pacific northwest and the claims of this important section upon the attention of the government.

Oregon in 1880 had 16,217 farms against 7587 in 1870. The heaviest increase in the number of farms, except in the new states, is in the south, where free labor is breaking up the old plantations.

The story appearing in our dispatches yesterday concerning the assassination of Queen Victoria was undoubtedly no more than a floating rumor, as nothing confirmatory of it has since been received.

There ought to be law enough in this country to prevent brutal and cruel exhibitions, such as the dog-fight at Hoosville, Indiana, yesterday.

DIED.

May 17, Blanche Ethel, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Keith, aged 11 years and 11 months.
Funeral from residence, Third between C and D, Friday at 1 o'clock P. M.

By drowning on Thursday, May 11, at East Portland, Charles Noonan, a native of County Galway, Ireland, aged 45 years.
The funeral will take place from the residence of his brother-in-law, James Lynch, M street, between Fifth and Sixth, East Portland, at 10 o'clock this forenoon. Friends and acquaintances invited to attend.

CORRESPONDENCE.

PORTLAND, O., May 18, 1882.
PROF. J. MURPHY, A. M.—DEAR SIR: WE, the undersigned, believing that the excellent "Lecture to the Young," delivered by you in the hall of the Y. M. C. Association on last Monday, deserves a larger hearing and may be repeated with advantage to the classes especially addressed, and it being the desire of many who failed to be present to hear your valuable lecture; we therefore hereby invite you to repeat the same in some suitable hall in our city at your earliest convenience.
JUDGE ADAMS,
L. A. MACRUM,
DR. O. B. BIRD,
CHAPLAIN R. S. STUBBS,
W. H. SAYLOR.

PORTLAND, O., May 18, 1882.
To Judge Adams, L. A. Macrum, Esq., Dr. O. B. Bird and Others. GENTLEMEN: Your favor of this date, just received, I hereby gratefully acknowledge. The flattering mention of my lecture, and the invitation to repeat the same at my earliest convenience, are highly prized by me as expressive of your appreciation of my lecture, and I hasten to specify next Saturday evening, at 8 o'clock, and Bethel Hall, corner of Third and D Sts., as the time and place for compliance with your kind invitation. Yours, etc.,
m18 J. MURPHY.

NEW TO-DAY.

Clothing that turns out well.

For anywhere from $12 to $25 we give you a business suit that looks good and is good; and three weeks or three months from now, if you show it to us and give a bad account of how it has worn, we will send you away a little more than content somehow. Can't tell how; don't know how; but we shall find out.

We know what our cloths are made of, and know what we may say for them; and what we say, we are good for.

REAL ESTATE AND FINANCIAL.

NOW READY.

SURVEYORS HAVING JUST COMPLETED THE subdivision of the Pointer tract into lots and blocks, we are now prepared to sell upon the most reasonable terms at lowest prices Town Lots.

This tract is our property owned by the O. R. & N. Company, in the southern part of East Portland, and is immediately adjacent to the bridge across Ross Island which is contemplated by the company. Lots are convenient to the business portion of the city, high and healthy. The land is level and magnificently picturesque. Everybody can afford to invest, or speculate where town lots of such undeniable value can be purchased, for $125 and $150 each, in installments of $12 50 per month, without interest. Make an appointment with us to view the lots as they are. We will convey customers to and from the grounds free of charge at any hour of the day.

CITY.

For Additional Locals See Fourth Page.

BAR MEETING.—Last evening, a meeting of the Portland Bar Association was held in the office of Williams, Hill, Durham & Thompson, to take action on the death of Charles [illegible] Hall. Sixty members were present. J. W. Whalley was called to the chair and Geo. H. Durham was chosen secretary. The following gentlemen were chosen a committee to draft suitable resolutions to be presented at the opening of court Monday morning next: J. F. Caples, B. Killin, C. A. Dolph, W. B. Gilbert and S. B. Greene. The following were chosen pall-bearers: J. W. Whalley, C. A. Dolph, Geo. H. Durham, B. Killin, W. B. Gilbert, J. [illegible] Chapman, R. L. Hale and W. M. Gregory. All present at the meeting, with many other friends of the dead lawyer, accompanied the remains from Holy & Barnett's to late residence, corner of Eleventh and Morrison. The funeral will take place from Forest Grove this afternoon, Rev. [illegible] officiating. Holbrook Lodge of Masons, of which Mr. Hall was a member, will conduct the ceremonies at the grave in the cemetery, near Gaston, on Wapato lake. The cortege will leave the [illegible] wharf promptly at 7 A. M. for the west side depot.

YOUNG MEN'S MEETING.—Last night the first meeting under the auspices of the newly organized young men's republican club was held in Turn halle. Every seat in the hall was filled and many had only standing room. About fifty ladies graced the meeting with their presence, and they were the most attentive auditors. Mr A. H. Tanner, president of the club, presided and opened with a short, pointed address on the mission of the organization. Hon. J. N. Dolph followed with a speech of characteristic force and eloquence. Judge L. B. Stearns, though very hoarse, entertained the crowd with an excellent twenty-minutes speech. Hon. C. B. Watson followed with a short and effective speech. Hon. J. F. Caples was the last speaker, and it is needless to say he dismissed the crowd in excellent humor. All the speeches were well received, and few left the hall till the meeting adjourned. The next meeting will be held next week. The club will have a business meeting to-morrow night in O. F. Paxton's office.

FELL IN CONVULSIONS.—Considerable excitement was created early last evening by the report that a woman had attempted to commit suicide at the corner of Third and Washington streets. About half-past seven Mrs. Lowell, a respectable woman who lives with her husband in the Palace lodging house, fell in front of Richet & Co's establishment as if intoxicated. Mr. Frank Richet soon discovered that the woman was very ill and had her taken to the residence back of the store. She was in violent convulsions and a physician who was summoned said she had the symptoms of poisoning by strychnine or some corrosive sublimate. A strong hypodermic injection of morphine was given which had the effect of quieting her for a time. During the less painful intervals she said that she had not taken poison. It was subsequently learned that the woman was subject to convulsions which often lasted for hours. About eleven o'clock Mrs. Lowell was taken home, her condition then being much improved.

MUST BE VACCINATED.—The city council last night passed the ordinance requiring all immigrants from foreign ports to be vaccinated before they are allowed to disembark from the vessel in which they came, providing they cannot show that they had been vaccinated within five years. The ordinance also states that a physician be appointed for that purpose, who will receive 25 cents for each vaccination. The ordinance has been passed just in time to catch all the Chinamen who are expected to arrive here before the restriction bill goes into effect, and will prove a bonanza for the lucky physician.

RECOVERED.—At 11 o'clock yesterday morning, the body of Charles Noonan, who was supposed to have been drowned last Thursday evening, was found in the slough at the corner of Howell & New's livery stable. Credit of finding the body is due to six of his Portland friends: Thomas Ryan, Edward Keely, James Noonan, P. G. Holland, E. Randall and Chas. Waterman, who worked assiduously for 24 hours after search had been abandoned by others. Coroner Garnold held an inquest, the jury returning a verdict of accidental drowning.

IMMIGRATION SINCE MARCH 1ST.—The O. R. & N. Co.'s ocean steamers have brought to Portland since March 1st 2120 cabin and 10,439 steerage passengers; total, 12,559. Outward bound passengers in the same time were: Cabin, 1426; steerage, 869; total, 2295. Immigration to Puget sound this spring also shows a handsome increase over last year. The Dakota, which sailed on the 10th from San Francisco, had 130 cabin passengers, 331 in the steerage and 1155 tons of freight.

TIMBER EXPERT.—Mr. H. C. Putnam, a prominent mill owner and lumber dealer of Eau Claire, Wisconsin, who is connected with the Northern Transcontinental survey, instituted by Mr. Villard, arrived by the last steamer and will make an examination of the commercial value of timber in the country tributary to the Northern Pacific lines. Mr. Putnam will visit all portions of Oregon, Washington and Idaho, and then proceed east overland through Montana.

THE NORWEGIAN "FOURTH."—Yesterday all the Norwegian flags in the city were flying in honor of the anniversary of the adoption of the new constitution, May 17, 1814, which gave to Norway greater liberties than are enjoyed by the subjects of any other monarchial government on the globe. In the evening the Scandinavian society gave a ball in Beck's hall.

ELECTION OF DIRECTORS.—The stockholders of the mechanics' fair association at the annual meeting Thursday evening elected the following directors: Frank Dekum, H. W. Corbett, John Barrett, Charles Hodge, W. B. Honeyman, L. L. Hawkins, Wm. M. Ladd, W. K. Smith, S. G. Skidmore, D. P. Thompson and George W. Weidler. Officers will be elected June 6th.

INDICTED.—A. Noltner, editor of the Standard, was indicted by the grand jury for libel in publishing an editorial charging George C. Sears, republican candidate for sheriff, with dishonesty in the management of the Potts' estate several years ago, of which Sears was administrator. He gave bonds in the sum of $250.

SPECIAL COUNCIL MEETING.—The city council will hold a special meeting next Monday evening as a committee of the whole to make some disposition of the petition of D. E. Budd for right of way through certain streets for the new Street Railway Co. All other business of importance which may arise before them will also be taken up.

ASCENSION DAY.—There will be early celebration of holy communion at Trinity church at 9 A. M. Service will be held in St. Stephen's chapel at 11 A. M., when Bishop Morris will administer communion. Bishop Morris will also officiate at Trinity Mission chapel at 7:30 P. M.

NEW MAP.—THE OREGONIAN is indebted to Messrs. H. W. and T. H. Ogilbie, designers and publishers, for an excellent map of Polk county, showing precincts, polling places, the location of each homestead, and containing maps of principal towns.

SERVICES TO-NIGHT.—Prof. Campbell, of Monmouth, will preach this evening at the Christian church, corner East Park and Columbia streets. After the sermon communion will be administered.

THE NEW COASTER.—The steamer Yaquina will be due here Monday morning with 3000 barrels lime from San Juan island, and will sail again Tuesday for Tillamook and Yaquina bay.

BRIEF MENTION.

Minstrels to-night.

Will it never clear up?

Democratic county convention Saturday.

The Irish Land League of this city will give a picnic on the 28th at City View Trotting Park.

Mr. S. Brownstone, who has been with Mallis Bros. for some time, has been promoted to manager.

Dr. L. J. Czapkay, the celebrated Hungarian Specialist, arrived by the "State" to establish a branch of his medical and surgical institute in this city.

AMUSEMENTS.

The reserved seat sale shows that the minstrels to-night will be greeted with an audience such as greeted them every evening during the first engagement. Everything in the programme is entirely new.

Prof. Willis, the illusionist, will give one of his grand gift entertainments at New Market Saturday night, on which occasion 104 valuable presents will be given out.

INSTRUCTION IN MUSIC.—Mr. Chas. E. Bray announces that he will receive pupils on the piano, organ and violin. Orders may be left at residence, 149 Fourth street, or at the music stores.

"THE DAVIS."

Just received at Garrison's Sewing Machine store, No. 167 Third street, Portland, a large shipment of the new style Davis Family and the large-armed Manufacturing Davis Sewing Machines. The Davis does the widest range of work, and is too well known to need any recommendation.

G. Neimeyer will have his store open by Monday, and also replenished with new goods arrived by the steamer Oregon, on Morrison street, between Third and Fourth, in Hardenburg's brick building.

THE CITY COUNCIL.

Hon. D. P. Thompson Resigns the Office of Mayor.

AN ELECTION FOR MAYOR ORDERED NEXT MONTH.

Petition presented asking that the Street Railway Company be required to Extend its Line Farther South.

A [illegible] meeting of the city council was held last evening, Mayor Thompson in the chair, and all members present.

MAYOR'S MESSAGE.

Mayor Thompson submitted the following message:

MAYOR'S OFFICE, PORTLAND, OREGON,
May 17, 1882.

To the Honorable the Common Council of the City of Portland—Gentlemen: At an election held on the 20th day of June, 1881, for city officers, Joseph Simon and myself were voted for for mayor of the city of Portland. On a canvass being made by the proper canvassing board I was declared elected to the office of mayor for the term of three years. An appeal was taken from the action of the canvassing board to the council to determine the right of said canvassing board to correct the returns made by the judges of election in the third ward. The common council assumed the authority to recount the votes of the three wards, and declared the result to be that neither Joseph Simon nor myself was elected, but declared the vote a tie, and that I was entitled to hold the office of mayor until my successor was elected according to law. The charter of the city of Portland gives no provision for holding an election to fill a vacancy caused by a tie vote, and only provides for filling a vacancy caused by death, resignation or the failure of the person elected to qualify thereafter.

From the fact that the charter has no provision made for holding an election where a tie vote has been declared until the next regular election at the end of a term of the office holding over, and that no controversy may arise which might be of disadvantage to the best interests of the city, I now tender you my resignation as mayor, to take effect on the first Monday in July, 1882. Respectfully submitted.
D. P. THOMPSON, Mayor.

PETITIONS, REMONSTRANCES, ETC.

From A. Bünisch and others, remonstrating against improvement of E street; referred to committee on streets.

From H. Sakalof, asking the city to sell or lease to the Turn Verein Society the half lot adjoining their hall; referred to committee on fire and water.

From Chas. H. Woodward and others, asking the council to take proceedings to compel the street railway company to comply with the terms of their charter, and extend the line to Wood street; referred to committee on streets.

From E. D. Budd, asking that the first section of his street railway ordinance be changed to read "From Washington street south on Eleventh street to Market street;" referred to committee of the whole.

From Libbie Vaughn, asking permission to drive piles and construct a wharf in front of lots 3 and 4, block 75; also, to erect a two-story wooden warehouse upon said lots; referred to committee on landings and wharves.

From the viewers of the proposed extension of Meade street, reporting damages in excess of benefits $168; adopted.

REPORTS.

From the city surveyor, concerning the proposed improvement of North Third street, giving plans; referred to committee on streets.

From the police judge, concerning expenses during past term; adopted.

PORTLAND, May 19, 1882.

To the Hon. Common Council of the city of Portland: Gentlemen—In obedience to resolution adopted at your last meeting, directing the city attorney to furnish the council his opinion in writing, "as to whether or not, under the provisions of the city charter, an election for the office of mayor of the city of Portland, should be held on the third Monday in June, 1882," I would respectfully report that I have examined the same, and am of the opinion than an election for said office should be held on that day.
L. B. STEARNS, City Att'y.

RESOLUTIONS.

The following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That the auditor and clerk be and is hereby authorized to issue warrants for the collection of delinquent assessments for the widening of N. Sixth street.

Resolved, That F. Opitz, Noah Lambert and Frank Dekum be and are hereby appointed to assess the cost of constructing the extension of the sewer in Pine street, as provided by section 103 of the city charter.

Resolved, That notice be given that the common council propose to improve West Park street from the center line of Salmon street to the south line of College street, by constructing sidewalks and crosswalks and macadamizing the street full width on the west half of the street, and on the east half of the street by macadamizing the street the full width thereof from center to east line and constructing crosswalks leading west; and constructing box gutters across the intersections and doing the necessary grading for the above work.

Resolved, That the common council of the city of Portland do hereby appoint judges and clerks of a general election, to be held in the several wards of said city on the third Monday, the 19th day of June, 1882, as follows:

First ward judges—E. J. Jeffrey, G. H. Flanders and Geo. L. Story.

Clerks—E. H. C. Taylor, Henry McGrannen.

Second ward judges—Geo. H. Durham, Andrew Roberts, J. H. Misner.

Clerks—C. A. M. Myers, Robert Newcomb.

Third ward judges—A. W. Waters, H. Y. Thompson and Peter Taylor.

Clerks—B. B. Curry and M. D. Kribs.

And the common council do hereby direct that said election be held at the following places:

First ward—At No. 2 engine house.
Second ward—At No. 1 engine house.
Third ward—At No. 4 engine house.

And that the auditor and clerk give ten days' notice by publication in the Daily Standard that on said third Monday, the 19th day of June, A. D. 1882, there will be held a general election for the election of one mayor for the term of three years, one member of the common council for the First ward, one member for the second ward and one member for the third ward, each for the term of three years, and that in said notice be specified the time and places for holding said election and the names of the judges and clerks thereof.

WHEREAS, A charter was granted to Levi Estes, to construct and operate street railways on certain streets within the city of Portland, among which streets were North First, First and South First streets; and

WHEREAS, The ordinance granting to said Levi Estes and his assigns, the right and privilege of maintaining and operating such street railways; also, provided, that said railway when laid down and completed upon any street or streets therein named, should be extended upon such street or streets, whenever the improvement of the roadway thereof (other than grading) shall be extended, and the common council shall so direct; and

WHEREAS, Under the provisions of said ordinance a line of street railways have been constructed and operated as far south as Caruthers street on South First street; and

WHEREAS, Said South First street has long since been macadamized and planked as far south as the southern limit of the city; and

WHEREAS, The residents and property owners south of said Caruthers street have repeatedly petitioned the common council to order said street car track extended as far south as said street is improved; therefore be it

Resolved, That the common council of the city of Portland do now order and direct that said street car track shall be extended southerly along South First street from its present terminus at Caruthers street, to the south boundary line of the city, and that said work of extension shall be commenced and carried forward to completion at as early a day as possible, not later than September 1, 1882.

YAQUINA BAY NOTES.

NEWPORT, May 11.

The stage line will start next week between Corvallis and Newport, so I am informed.

The Sea Foam, Capt. J. J. Winant, arrived from San Francisco with material for the O. P. R. R. telegraph line from Yaquina City to Corvallis, which I [illegible] to be constructed soon. She brought [illegible] wheels and [illegible] to be used in the construction of the railroad.

The steamer Yaquina, Capt. Dodge, arrived from Portland to-day at 5 o'clock A. M., giving the Newport residents an agreeable surprise. This steamer [illegible] to the people here and deserves a liberal patronage. She will cross out to-morrow and return to this place in two weeks.

Messrs. Lena Davis & Sons are building a steam ferry to run between Newport and South Beach. The machinery will be brought up on the next schooner from San Francisco. This is a much needed enterprise and will be a great convenience to the traveling public.

Mr. Fred Olsen has secured the services of an engineer to survey and plat a town site on his farm. This is one of the nicest spots on the bay and lies adjoining Newport. He will open books for the sale of lots as soon as the survey is finished.

Col. Smith, chief engineer of the O. P. R. R., is registered at the Ocean House. He is inspecting the wharves and warehouses in course of construction and attending to matters generally in his department at this end of the road. He will return to-morrow to Corvallis.

TROUBLE AT HARRISBURG, ALASKA.

Mr. Dan Schuler, president of the Northwest Trading Co., received yesterday the following letter from Hon. I. S. Clifford, collector of customs at Wrangel, under date of 4th inst.:

"The Otter leaves this afternoon for Victoria, and it may interest you to know all that we know here of the reported disturbances at Harrisburg. Five days ago a canoe bound from Harrisburg to Port Simpson, was spoken off this harbor, and reported that there had been fighting between two parties of white men, and that two or three had been shot to death. A well-manned canoe had left here starting for Sitka to bring the immediate presence of the Wachusett at Harrisburg. The more I investigate this story the less I was inclined to believe in its gravity. Yet it did look as if the whites had interfered in defense of the Stickeen's, the weaker party, and several of the Auks had been roughly handled, but none killed. Wilson said something about a canoe having gone in search of the Wachusett, but he and others sent a letter to Capt. Pearson, presuming that he would be at Wrangel, and other letters for the Wachusett are at this office awaiting the arrival of the ship. I have given you all the information we have from Harrisburg. My belief is that the Wachusett has gone there, based mainly on the fact that Capt. Pearson spoke so positively about coming here, fixing the 26th as his sailing day from Sitka. I don't think he would have changed his plans without some urgent reason."

DEMOCRATIC PRIMARIES.

Yesterday the Multnomah county democracy held primaries to choose delegates to the county convention, which meets next Saturday. Following is the result in this city:

JONATHAN MILLS GRADUAL REDUCTION PROCESS.
OVER 500 MACHINES IN USE.
The Degerminator Splits the Wheat and removes the germ and seam impurities perfectly. These Reduction Machines granulate the wheat, without cutting or abrading the bran. Guaranteed to make rounder and larger middlings and a greater percentage; also STRONGER and WHITER FLOUR than any other system in use.
A LIBERAL OFFER TO MILLERS.—Knowing the superiority of the Jonathan Mills Degerminator and Reduction Machines for reducing wheat, we submit the following liberal proposition:
We will set aside the Corrugated Rolls and put our machines in their place at our expense, and without making any other changes, we will guarantee Better Results than are now obtained, in this: that from the same quantity and quality of wheat now used per barrel, we will guarantee a larger per centage of Patent Flour of equal quality to that now made; a less per centage of low grade flour, and a Bakers' Flour superior in color and quality to, and worth more money than, the Bakers' Flour now made in the same mills. If we fail to accomplish Better Results as above, we will take out our machines and replace the Rolls, all at our own expense, and, in addition, will forfeit to the miller a cash bonus of $2000 to $10,000, according to the capacity of the mill.
In practical operation at City of Salem Co's Capitol Mills, Salem, Or.
Who Manufacture Four Grades of Flour from our Machines.
A TEST CROWNED BY VICTORY OVER THE ROLLER SYSTEM.
In January, 1881, McFlow & Co., of Cleveland, Ohio, bought the Jonathan Mills Reduction Machines and fitted up their "National Mills" therewith, continuing to use these machines for a year and a half. In August last, they were induced to set out the Reduction Machines and put in the Corrugated Roller Mills, subject to acceptance after trial, and had their mills re-arranged, at considerable expense, by practical men skilled in the art of roller milling, aided and backed by all the latest and best experience of the manufacturers of Roller Mills. After five months' trial McFlow & Co. have thrown out the Corrugated Rolls and put the Jonathan Mills Reduction Machines back into their mills, where they are now in use, because the work of the Jonathan Mills Reduction Machines so far excelled that done by the Rolls.
ON TRIAL WITHOUT EXPENSE to the Miller.—In any mill where Corrugated Rolls are used for reducing wheat, we will put in our machines in place of the Rolls, furnish all shaftings, pulleys, etc., at our own expense, and let the miller run them on trial for 60 days. If the miller chooses to keep them we will charge him the regular price and the actual cost of making the change. If he prefers to keep the Rolls we will take out our machines and replace the Rolls, before thus insuring the miller a satisfactory trial in his own mill, and without any expense. [Concluded from first page.]

yarn and cloth, etc. These must be set off against other expenses for clothing, etc., and sums noted in the foregoing budget.

SKILLED LABORERS.

The grand average of an income and of the head of skilled labor is as follows: For a master, per week, $3; $156 per annum. For a workman, per week, $1 50, $77 per annum. For youngsters or females, per week, 50 cents; $26 per annum. The expenses of living will be, respectively:

For a master per annum:

For food, &c	$72
For rent, &c	36
For clothing, &c	12
Total	120

For a workman per annum:

For food, &c	45
For rent, &c	12
For clothing, &c	8
Total	65

The females and youngsters are considered to absorb all they earn. The master lives generally at his workshop, where he has, perhaps, two rooms, besides a place to cook in. The household furniture may be estimated at from $20 to $30. The ordinary workman, if married, will share a small house with a friend and occupy one room and have free access to the kitchen. He may live with his parents, in which case his earnings go to the common fund. Under such circumstances $10 to $15 will cover the value of the household furniture. If a bachelor, and away from his family, he will either sleep at his employer's for a consideration, or stay with a friend; in either case the whole inventory consists of a box with his clothes and his bedding. The main motive of practicing economy with every Chinaman is, first, to be able to take a wife; secondly, to perform his duties to the manes of his ancestors; and thirdly, to defray the expenses of his own funeral.

ORDINARY OR COOLIE LABORER.

Herein are comprised the carriers, boatmen, the wheelbarrow men, etc. Taking the rates ruling at the great commercial centers of this empire, the grand average of a man's earnings is about one hundred and fifty cash, or fifteen cents a day, which is equal to $4 50 per month. But it varies so considerably, according to supplies and demand in different localities, that the minimum is as low as five cents a day, while the maximum is as high as thirty cents, without food or lodging. Much also depends upon the physical strength of the men; the endurance and strength of some being actually marvelous. Take, for instance, the tea-carriers in the mountainous parts of western China. They carry on their backs a load of from three hundred to four hundred pounds' weight across the difficult mountain passes, and travel with it for twenty consecutive days. They are considered well paid at twenty-five cents a day. An ordinary coolie's monthly account would stand about thus:

Receipts in wages		$4 50
Expenditures for food	$3 00
Expenditures for lodging	50
Incidental expenses	50
		4 00
Net income		50

He hires himself out by the day, the month, and, less frequently, by the year. The value of his labor varies according to the season. During harvest time he gets, besides the meals, worth about ten cents, from ten to fifteen cents per day, or seventy cents to $1 00 a week. If his employment be by the month he gets $1 50 to $2 a month, besides board. For permanent employment, or employment by the year, the wages are lower, averaging about twelve dollars per annum, with board and lodging. When working for short terms lodging is no great consideration with him, for he always will find rough accommodations with a friend or relative. Men of this class defray their house rent with about fifty cash or five cents a month. About two dollars per annum will keep his wardrobe in a state adequate to his scanty wants. A man who saves $3 to $4 a year does fairly well, but the majority live from hand to mouth, and their whole life is but a hard struggle to fight the hungry wolf from the door.

How do you suppose our American laborers with large families to support, and forced to compete with the poorer of these elements, and to struggle against these odds for their daily bread—how do you suppose they relish the picture I have unrolled before you? Judge Denny adds that the Chinese empire can supply the world with this class of cheap labor.

I know it has flooded us with several hundreds of thousands, coming and going constantly, and the number has only been limited by the excitement and resentment aroused wherever they have come in contact with our race. Impossible as it is for the census correctly to give their number now here, yet I estimate that upon our coast there are from one hundred to one hundred and fifty thousand, almost entirely males, only a very small percentage being females, but without the relation of marriage. Probably not one in the whole class which this bill proposes to hereafter exclude would bring a wife or marry one during his stay in America, and the women generally who do come carry along with them the pestilential scourge of combined female slavery, concubinage, and prostitution.

For nearly a third of a century this class of laborers have been with us on our coast, during which period you well know, Mr. Speaker, what wonderful progress and gigantic advancement the people of Europe and the American people have been making. Only a few days ago the statement was made by a gentleman addressing one of our committees that the first engineer that ever rode upon a railroad engine in America is living to-day in the city of New York. The same day the present minister from the Hawaiian government informed me that he was a member of the American congress when the subsidy was given Morse, the great inventor of the telegraph, to test his wonderful discovery.

These incidents serve to recall the surprising development of our age. It is so grand and glorious that it is the sublime theme of orators and the problem of study for statesmen, and nowhere in the wide world has it achieved the wonderful zenith it has in America. But how has it been with the Mongolians among us? No one can truthfully say that in all their stay among us they have made any appreciable progress whatever, and it is especially true that they have made none in assimilating with us.

True to their time-sacred custom of exclusiveness, they import large quantities of their food and clothing from the old country, and with their wages they return there if alive, and if dead their bones are transferred by the living. Notwithstanding this is a land of real property-holders, not one of them to-day owns a homestead. A lease simply of a piece of ground is occasionally acquired, and then only for temporary purposes. They do not come for homes; they come for greed, and so blind is their adherence to their pagan abode in China that generally so soon as their needs are supplied they return, and the few dollars earned in America place them in affluence, comparatively, in China.

Those here still speak a foreign language and worship a pagan deity and they yet live in blind veneration of the idolatries and superstitions of their dark ages of the past. At home China stands to-day where she has stood for thousands of years, firmly wedded to her Joss and to other idols. While other nations are looking forward she is gazing backward—venerating the paths trodden by her idolatrous ancestors, and with no interest in any ideas or any institution or any civilization or any religion save her own.

No Chinese laborer reads our papers, attends our gatherings, frequents our resorts, patronizes our schools, supports our churches, or in any way seems to be a part of us. They know but little and care less about our government or our institutions. Their manners, habits, socialisms, and government are diametrically opposite to ours. Occasionally, of course, there is an exception, but for all practical purposes it need not be taken into consideration.

They are a law unto themselves, governed by their own superstitions, regulations, and tribunals, and a block in the way of enforcing the laws of our country. The vast body of them arrive sound hand and foot by the restrictions of coolie serfdom and from the lower classes of China, from the masses described by Bayard Taylor, the great traveler, as the most debased people on the face of the earth.

Now, compare if you please, Mr. Speaker, the intelligent American laborer married, surrounded by his wife and his children, trying to pay for his own homestead, supporting his school and his church, obeying the law and loyal to America, with these coolie laborers from China—ignorant, superstitious, childless, unmarried; no home but a China hovel where many brood and hover in narrow contracted space, and all pagans and idolators and of a different race. And what American can view with anything but the gravest apprehension the result where these foreign elements largely prevail and where their spread is practically unlimited? Do not call this immigration. Do not abuse the significance of the word or the idea. We on the Pacific slope are as desirous of immigration as any country can be. We are now anxiously awaiting the completion of transcontinental railroads and the inauguration of steamship lines to bring to the golden land of the Pacific the brain and the muscle and the capital and the patriotism of immigration.

Give us of your people. Give us of the people of our race. Give us the English, the Irish, the Scotch, the German, or the Scandinavian. Give us those who will come with their families, who will assimilate with us, help diversify our industries and build up our institutions, but do not force upon us the very opposite—the class to which I am now referring.

No one need be misled by false assertions that we would talk differently if the Chinese were voters. Even were such the case it would not alter the facts to which I have briefly referred. But who, let me ask, in this broad land would have them voters? Where is there a representative within the sound of my voice who will rise in his seat and proclaim that over 100,000 pagan idolaters, ignorant, neither able to read nor write nor to speak our language intelligibly, who are not possessed of any of the material qualifications or sympathies of electors, who come and go in herds or under the control of some of the Six Companies that buy and sell them as they please, should have placed in their hands the elective franchise? As well give any other subject of China the suffrage, for whether here or in Asia, they are equally foreign to everything which we as loyal and true Americans hold dear. I call the earnest attention of the law-makers of the nation to this fact. If you allow this vast body of China coolies to be admitted into this republic one of two things must result: they must either remain as the lower strata of cheap menial laborers for commercial purposes, to be bought, used, and sold for profit by capitalists, corporations, or monopolists, or else you must do with them as you do with the Caucasian from Europe, make them citizens and voters and intrust to them governing power over our American homes and institutions and republic. One or the other. There is no escaping it. Which shall it be, serfs or citizens?

No, this is not a subject for a demagogue, but one calling for earnest, careful, patriotic, and statesmanlike consideration. As to the benefits derived from this class they are almost entirely those growing out of so-called "cheap labor," and much of the profit thereof has gone to enrich the corporate monopolies of the east and of our coast. But, Mr. Speaker, the true policy of our country is not to "cheapen" labor. The blessings of home life, the payment of the little debt upon the homestead, the education of the children, the support for charity, the spare contribution to the cause of religion, and leisure for essential recreation, and time for study and for reflection upon the duties of citizenship, all of these are dependent in our land upon the compensation that is [illegible], intelligent, devoted Americans who live by the sweat of their brow [illegible] a policy of cheap government to [illegible] the [illegible] of [illegible] American citizens.

Oh, but [illegible] that labor cry out for a despotism [illegible] the balance against [illegible] classes [illegible] but not that a land [illegible] an idea that every American is a sovereign and must have the power to maintain his sovereignty [illegible].

The Speaker. The [illegible] time has expired.

Mr. Page. I ask unanimous consent that the time of the gentleman from Oregon be extended. [illegible].

Mr. George. I shall [illegible] to [illegible] minutes.

The Speaker. If there is no objection the time of the gentleman is extended accordingly.

Mr. George. As I was about to say, when our [illegible] our [illegible] our future welfare are to [illegible] upon the prosperity of the countless homes of American laborers who [illegible] these settles on our civilization, and who [illegible] our religion, ever [illegible] a policy which will destroy this grand foundation.

It is protection to the laboring men of our country to legislate on this [illegible]. I believe in protecting and protecting labor. I believe in legislation in behalf of our American [illegible] reasons before stated, and because in our form of government, where wealth, or large brain, or traits of intellect culminate ultimately almost any power, it is necessary to legislate in behalf of the weaker brain or the uneducated mind, or the intelligent but poor citizen laborers who are down but who are striving to get upon their feet as it were.

It is necessary also for the reason that our success as a nation depends upon the intelligence, independence, and virtue of the mass of our people, and to preserve that proper equilibrium between the various elements and interests in our land. It has been the policy of our government for years in her tariff regulation to endeavor so far as possible to protect our American laborers from the productions of cheap foreign labor. That practically is what is asked in this bill. In that tariff legislation we have placed restrictions upon the entry of the products of cheap foreign pauper labor; this bill places restrictions upon the presence of far cheaper and of ignorant, servile, unassimilating, and pagan laborers. We are only asking for the west what you have long had in the east, the policy of dignifying and protecting American laborers. No, Mr. Speaker, "cheap" labor is not an American policy, and our permanent prosperity depends upon a fairer and more just distribution of the wealth of labor among its producers.

You of the east cannot feel the force of the evil of unrestricted Chinese importation as we of the west, but the time may come when you will. On our undeveloped coast where, though driven from one industry they could more readily find another, our laborers generally, excepting some in the larger cities, have heretofore made a living, such it has been, despite the Mongolian, but let there be an inundation of Chinese upon any of your eastern cities as we have had in the cities of the west, and there will be just two things for your poorer classes to do, either to retreat before the Mongolian or starve. It is simply a question of cold mathematics.

But you say you are in no danger. Ah! but we are. Chinese companies can pour into our coast and into this country thousands to where one has been sent before, and their absence scarcely be noticed in the Empire of China. And indeed they can land upon your shores and in your ports as well as ours. Only the fear of an uprising or the engendering of a too formidable opposition to be overcome has hitherto restrained the greed of the importation companies, and so we on the Pacific alone feel the evil as it exists to day and has for years.

The resentment of our people operates as a constant restraint on their action. These Chinese companies are, however, closely watching events, flooding our desks with specious pleas to deceive our eastern people, and anxiously awaiting results.

Will you of the east turn a deaf ear to our interests? Will you not assist us? For over a quarter of a century my personal observations on this question have extended, and now remembering the past and looking the future earnestly in the face, I announce my firm conviction that there is an irrepressible conflict that must continue until one system prevails. Paganism, with cheap, ignorant, servile labor, and civilization, with intelligent, fairly-remunerated, and free labor, are so radically different, are so diametrically opposed to each other, that such portions of our country and our coast where they meet must either become Mongolian or American. Which does the American congress say it shall be? America has had enough of race troubles. With the red race and the black race we have dealt in the past, and now the yellow race demands our attention, coupled, as it is, with the labor problem, and interwoven with questions affecting our civilization, our religion, and our government.

No careful, reflecting mind can dismiss this grave question without the ill-applied boast that America is the land of refuge of all people from all countries. There is reason in everything, and true and false applications of all principles. I know the downtrodden of all lands who desire to lay here broad and deep the foundations of human liberty, and to enjoy the blessings of the most perfect of human governments where may be realized the full strength and highest cultivation of human intellect, and who hope for the attainment of the great triumph of civil and religious liberty, have been invited to come and lend a helping hand, but none other.

We have invited them to join us. They do not come of their own right. We are the custodians of America. On us rests the responsibility of so ruling and so guiding our government as to preserve its blessings for us and those we think safe to invite to our shores, our homes, and our power. By all the principles of the law of nations every country has a right to protect itself and to refuse admission to any if an evident danger or manifest injury is a probable result. The right under the law of nature sanctions it and the law of self-defense demands it.

The right of defending ourselves is just as dear to an aggregation of individuals as to a single individual. If society may imprison one of its members for the public welfare, much more may it exclude, if necessary, for the same reasons, those of a foreign shore. We as individual Americans have the right to protect our own homes and our own households from dangerous intrusion; so have we, to protect our great American home. Let us hear no more of misapplied governmental principles or national boasts, for there is no room or proper place for sentimentality in the consideration of this question, vital to our western interests. Neither sentiment nor mistaken views of commercial advantage should weigh in the balance against the flesh and blood of the American people.

We of the distant Pacific are indeed good-faith immigrants to that fair portion of our national heritage, but there we are meeting the inundations of capital-owned foreign labor. There we have met what the lamented Garfield said was "too much like an importation to be welcomed without restriction and too much like an invasion to be looked upon without solicitude." The great, noble-hearted, patriotic, good man was not misled by name or false applications of principles as I fear others have been.

Mr. Speaker, it is said that civilization began its growth and course ages since in distant and ancient Asia—wended its way through and over Europe and westward to America, and now sits enthroned on the distant Pacific as elsewhere in this broad grand land of ours. But from that same old moss-grown Asia, wedded to and fossilized in her superstitions and her idolatries of the past, now rolls eastward her worst elements of paganism and barbarism, and the clash of the conflict is resounding wherever the billows of the Pacific roll upon the sands of America.

History tells us of other nations of wealth and power overrun by less numerous but equally dangerous foes, and we may well pause and reflect.

The Washington Capital publishes the following in its editorial columns, to account for the attacks of the New York press on Secretary Blaine:

So far as the Chilian imbroglio is concerned, the attitude of the New York press is due to the operations of Senor Godoy, who, we learn, is to be made Chilian minister here. His first appearance on our soil was in the capacity of envoy extraordinary, or rather confidential agent of the Chilian government. He brought with him letters of credit on London for a large amount, and it is an open secret in diplomatic circles that his first act in this country was to disburse between $50,000 and $100,000 in "fixing" the New York press, and we are informed upon the authority of a distinguished member of the diplomatic corps that the benefits of this subsidy were extended to several prominent Washington correspondents.
